General questions [EUNET should use the Open Space method for further events.]

At the open space event "400 days to go... - EUNET in preparation for the European elections 2014", I particularly liked:

all That everybody could go around an participate in each workshop even the next day Wäller Stübchen the open space method and the high involvement of the participants the fact that despite the temptation to stand by the coffee bar, there were no timeouts and everybody was willing to work all day long. I also liked that everyone shared (free) drinks after a long working day. exchanges between participants the relaxed atmosphere which enabled us to be very productive. Great forum to make participants work on projects

At the open space event "400 days to go ... - EUNET in preparation for the European elections 2014", I particularly disliked:

nothing the voring on proposals was rather unnesecasry! I would have liked it better without the priorisation, since it didnt help at all anyway! well, when it's perfect it's perfect :-) N/A the huge differences between the German structures and the French structures made it difficult to find a common and concrete project for promoting next year elections. nothing the fact that only 4 nationalities were represented some crazy participants, who proved to not be able to listen for the last six years

Suggestions as how to improve the format or method:

/ to have more participants maybe the open space is more interactive with a bigger group try to attract more people from other countries if the results of the workshop should be more focused on the realistic outcome, it might be useful to let the initiators stay in their workshops. otherwise you might have double the ideas on two different days, but less realistic outcome

Any other remarks / Any further suggestions for future topics:

/ not yet Continue like this I miss an ambitious huge project coached by Eunet . I'm looking for the final topic choosen and the follow up afterwards
